Aid At Once To Nazi Victims Urged By ILO

A resolution calling for the immediate rescue of victims of Nazism, signed by the worker-delegates from twenty-four countries to the conference of the International Labor Organization in Philadelphia, was made public by the Jewish Labor Committee, 175 East Broadway, New York.

The declaration asks the governments of the United Nations to repeat the warnings to the Nazis that they will be held strictly accountable for their crimes against civilian people, and it urges that the remaining Jews in Hitler controlled Europe be recognized as prisoners of war. It asks that Palestine be kept open for Jewish immigration and urges that free ports be established in the democratic countries to provide shelter to refugees escaping from the Nazi countries until such time as they will be able to go back as free men to their liberated native lands.

Those who signed the resolution were: Robert J. Watt, United States; Percy J. Clarey, Australia; Jef Rens, Paul Finet, Belgium; Dario de Mattos, Lima, Brazil; Joseph Hallsworth, Anne Loughlin, British Empire; Percy R. Bengough, Norman S. Dowd, Canada; Pedro V. Quiroga, Chile; Chu Hsueh-fan, China; Fernandez R. [illegible], Cuba; Josef Kosina, Czechoslovakia; Jose Maria Morales, Dominican Republic; Charles Louis [illegible], Albert Guigui, France; [illegible] Mehta, India; Vicente [illegible], Alejandro Carrillo, [illegible] [illegible] and Walter Schevenels, general secretary, International Federation of Trade Unions.

U.S. Citizen Wills Berlin Home To U.S.

An American citizen's Berlin home, which was occupied as headquarters of the Nazi party in 1939, was given to the government of the United States by the will of the late Albert Eckstein, of New York.

Mr. Eckstein died in New York on May 4. He was seventy-six years old and was the founder of the millinery supplies and importing house of Eckstein & Co., 15 West Thirty-seventh Street. He made the will a year ago, instructing his executors to notify the United States Department of State immediately upon his death of his desire that "all of my property located in Berlin become the property of the United States of America."

The property is a large house and gardens at Herbertstrasse 12, in the Berlin residential district known as the Grunewald, according to Sylvan Gotshall, who drew the will and filed it. Mr. Gotshall, of the law firm of Weil, Gotshal & Manges at 60 East Forty-second Street, described the place as just the sort that the Fifth Avenue homes in the Seventies were be-

TO RAISE $100,000 FOR JEWS OF RUMANIA

Plans to raise $100,000 for the aid, rescue and rehabilitation of the Jews of Rumania and a nation-wide campaign to collect clothing and essential supplies for immediate relief were perfected at the closing session of the two-day convention of the United Rumanian Jews of America at the Hotel Edison, in New York.

The 400 delegates also voted to petition Congress and State Legislatures for measures to make anti-Semitism a crime, and they adopted a resolution seeking the establishment of free ports for refugees. Charles Sonnenreich was elected president and Sol. Rosman named executive secretary.

Warns Jews Not To Vote As Partisans

Warning of the danger of religious or racial groups voting as such in the Presidential election, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, in a sermon in Sixty-eighth Street, New York, declared that Jews should vote as Americans and not as partisans. In the past, Dr. Wise pointed out, some religious groups voted on a religious basis.

"Such a blunder does not justify similar blunders," he said.

He declared that the coming election perhaps will be the most important in American history. [illegible]

[illegible] could by some unfortunate [illegible] that any racial or religious group should vote as such, though in all fairness it must be admitted that at the last Presidential election, international issues were dragged into the contest and certain religious groups voted with measurable agreement in one way, having special regard to what they believed to be unfairness or the possibility of injustice to their own religious group or communion. Such a blunder does not justify similar blunders.

"The fact is that we do not wish to repeat the mistakes and worse than mistakes of other groups. There are certain things, however, which a Jewish group can and should do. Every member of it should resolve that he will vote not as a partisan but as an American. We have made too much of partisanship at elections. We have made too little of Americanism. We have accepted partisanship as a straight-jacket instead of regarding it as a liberating whip.

"If I believed that there were danger that either of the two political parties favored a Fascist regime, it would be my duty to say to my fellow-Jews that you must do what you can to prevent such a subversion of American life and ideals, and seek to secure the cooperation of all other groups, racial and religious, in averting the unutterable tragedy of such Fascist perversion of the American way of life.

"A minor reason for voting as Jews is to vote against an unworthy Jewish candidate. A major reason for voting as Americans and Jews would be to prevent the destruction of the American democracy. If that were threatened, we could not sit idly by and say the election will take care of that issue. The citizens of a democracy must bow to a majority decision, the verdict rendered, but it is also to be remembered that citizens in a democracy must work with every atom of their moral and political strength to prevent that coming to pass which endangers the very life of democracy.

"Just as there are times when Jews as Jews should vote against a Jew unfit to hold public office, so there are times when Jews as a matter of self-respect must individually and collectively vote against one whom they must oppose because he misuses his public office in order to bring about hatred, bigotry and divisiveness in American life.

"Who would say that Jews who happen to live in a certain Congressional district in Mississippi or Michigan ought not to vote against the re-election of a candidate for the House who utilizes his place in Congress not only to deal foul blows against Jews, but uses his high place for deadly disservice to the American democracy?"

NEW SEMINARY HEAD IS ONLY 35

Dr. Samuel Belkin, Talmudist and scholar, will be inducted as second president of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, which includes Yeshiva College, 186th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York, on May 23, it was announced by Dr. Samuel Levy, chairman of the board of directors.

The seminary also includes the Bernard Revel Graduate School of Jewish and Semitic Studies, Teachers Institute, a training school for Hebrew teachers, and Talmudical Academy, an academic high school.

Dr. Belkin succeeds to the post left vacant by the death of Dr. Bernard Revel, founder and first president of Yeshiva College. Only 33 years of age, the new president has served as dean and Professor of Talmud in the seminary and Professor of Hellenistic Literature in the graduate school.

Honorary degrees will be conferred on American and Jewish leaders. Representatives of several faiths and of many educational bodies, colleges and seminaries will take part in the exercises.

Jews In Hungary Fear Death By Gas

Although it may sound unbelievable, it is a fact that Hungary, where Jewish citizens were comparatively well treated until March 19, is now preparing for the annihilation of Hungarian Jews by the [illegible] methods. [illegible] New York Times.

The Government in Budapest has decreed the creation in different parts of Hungary of "special baths" for Jews. These baths are in reality huge gas chambers arranged for mass murder, like those inaugurated in Poland in 1941.

Scores of thousands of Jews, including women with babies in arms, were murdered in these gas-chamber baths. They were Jews from all over Europe, sent to Poland in cattle trains and forced into specially built chambers to which they were taken under the pretext of having baths prior to being sent to the Ukraine for colonization. Five and half million Jews in Europe are reported to have been put to death in one form or another by the Germans since the war began.

Official diplomatic dispatches from Budapest declare that all Jews in Hungary are living in fear of imminent annihilation, from which there seems to be no escape. The dispatches, written by a neutral diplomat who is known to be a great friend of the Hungarians, condemn in the strongest terms the present Hungarian Government's treatment of hundreds of thousands of innocent, loyal Hungarian citizens of Jewish faith.

"Were I not here to witness it with my own eyes, I would never have believed that Magyars were capable of perpetrating such inhuman acts against honest, law-abiding citizens, whose only sin is that they are members of the faith which is the mother of Christianity," the diplomat wrote.

"Never in my career was I so eager to be relieved of my post as I am today. The cruelty of the Government is beyond my comprehension, and I fail to understand how men calling themselves gentlemen and aristocrats can be so heartless and brutal to their fellow men.

"I am not justifying the Allied bombings of Budapest, but I cannot help but laugh when I hear members of the Hungarian Government refer to the Allied air raids as barbaric and inhuman at a time when this Government is daily committing the most abominable crimes against a million of their own countrymen."

Public Out-Cry Forces Polish Government To Pardon Jewish Deserters

The Polish government-in-exile in London announced on May 12 that an amnesty decree freeing all Polish-Jewish soldiers recently sentenced by court martial for desertion from the Polish Army in Britain has been signed by President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz. The amnesty covers other "military offenses" besides desertion, to enable all Polish soldiers to take active part in the final phases of the war. In granting it, the Polish Government made the ultimate concession to the public outcry against the imprisonment of soldiers who deserted the Polish Army to escape racial discrimination.

The Polish Ministry of Information issued a statement referring to the charges of anti-Semitism in the Polish Army which the deserters said caused their action. "The Polish commander in chief," the statement said, "will not tolerate behavior lacking in comradeship or racial or religious discrimination in the Polish forces." It said men proved guilty of anti-Jewish offenses had been punished.

The amnesty decree pardons twenty-three Polish-Jewish deserters who complained of ill-treatment and declared that they deserted in order to join the British Army. Sentences ranged from one to three years' imprisonment.

"One officer was removed from his post for improper behavior toward a Jewish soldier," the statement said.

President Wladislaw Raczkiewicz granted the amnesty, the statement added, to allow the soldiers "to take an active part in the battle" for the deliverance of Europe. It said that the underground leaders who recently arrived from Poland had reported an "imposing amount" of help being given by Poles to Jews.

The statement reiterated the government's intention not to "tolerate behavior lacking comradeship in the Army."

Noting reports that soldiers who were formerly conscripts in the German Army had been "instigators of anti-Semitic brawls," the statement said, "Only one soldier was found to belong to this category."

In granting the amnesty, the Polish President insisted that all Polish citizens must submit to service in the Polish forces, a proposition in which the leaders of Polish Jewry have agreed. Tom Driberg, British member of Parliament, who campaigned for the Polish-Jewish soldiers in the Commons, said that nine of them had

Next! MOVIES THAT "LIVE AND BREATHE"
...the work of men who think of tomorrow

3-DIMENSIONAL MOVIES, they're called — so realistic that the characters seem to step from the screen and pass beside you. Planes roar out of the sky and into this very theatre. Flowers in a garden seem to spill their petals right into your lap. Every screen play is a vast and enthralling spectacle, so true to life you feel you are one of the actors! That's the movie of the future, being perfected now by Men Who Think of Tomorrow!

No continent in the world is more fortunate in the tremendous improvements in everyday living which await it. That is because we are blessed with MEN WHO THINK OF TOMORROW!

• How important it is, therefore, that we make firmer our resolves and increase our daily efforts to bring that Tomorrow to pass. Remember, an enemy stands between us and Tomorrow. He is staking his all on keeping it from us. Can we do less than this to defeat his purpose?

• Let us create Victory! Let us wrest it from the very soil we till, the very tools we use in our factories, the very dollars we earn! Keep up production rates, yes, exceed them. Buy more and more Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. Do anything and everything to help win this war.

• Let's all be MEN WHO THINK OF TOMORROW!

Z.O.A. Urges Nations Save Trapped Jews

The Zionist Organization of America, in an all-day session at the Hotel New Yorker, in New York, issued a manifesto urging immediate action of the United Nations to rescue the "remaining two million Jewish survivors trapped in Hungary, Rumania and other Balkan countries."

A resolution called upon every Zionist to honor "the memory of the hundreds of thousands of valiant men, women and children who fell in the battle of the Warsaw Ghetto" on April 19, which was designated by the American Jewish Conference as a day of commemoration of that tragic event.

Dr. James G. Heller of Cincinnati, chairman of the administrative council, presided over the sessions, which were attended by 200 representatives. Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the organization, denounced the White Paper policy of England, which he called "Britain's blackest stain on Palestine." Branding the document as a "dishonorable breach of an internationally covenanted promise to the Jewish people made in the Balfour Declaration," he asked:

"Unless this breach of honor is mended by the revocation of the White Paper, what reason is there to have any faith in any of Britain's promises to any small nation for the future?"

Mendel N. Fisher, executive director, announced that $2,164,000 was remitted to Palestine for new land purchases during the first six months of the fiscal year, and reported that despite the White Paper policy restricting land purchases, the Jewish National Fund had acquired 200,000 new dunams of land since 1939. Also announced was establishment of a colony in Palestine in honor of Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who recently celebrated his seventieth birthday.

Power Policy—A Long Range View

With the expropriation of Montreal Light Heat and Power, one half the electricity service of the province, serving one-third of the population, and covering the Province's most important industrial area, is now operated under a system of public ownership. This is [illegible]

[illegible] paid by the public and by industry, have been far lower than comparable rates in the City of Montreal.

The aim of lower rates is one of the main justifications for the expropriation bill. The artificially built-up capital structure of the Montreal Light Heat and Power, plus a policy of narrow self-interest on the part of this company for over half a century, have led to the enrichment of shrewd private owners at the expense of the public pocket. Lack of success on the part of the government, after repeated attempts, to establish lower rates by arbitration, has led to the only possible alternative — expropriation at a fair value to shareholders, and public ownership of the utility.

But the Montreal Power expropriation is only the first step to a wider policy on the part of the Godbout Liberal government of nationalization of hydro services, cheaper electricity for industry throughout the province, and province-wide rural electrification. This latter policy is of greatest immediate importance. The advantages of household electrification have been most fully enjoyed to date in large centres of population, where it has been most profitable to sell power to large numbers of consumers at least maintenance cost. This obstacle to the electrification of thinly populated areas can only be removed through the present policy of public-ownership in power distributing facilities. The Godbout Government has opened the way to rural electrification and cheap power for industry throughout the province—the first step to a new era of economic expansion in the post war period.

Receive Honor Degrees

In impressive services held at the Central Synagogue, Lexington Avenue at Fifty-fifth Street, New York, three American Jewish leaders received the honorary degree of Doctor of Hebrew Letters from Hebrew Union College.

Recipients were Dr. Salo W. Baron, Professor of Jewish History, Literature and Institutions at Columbia University, president of the American Historical Association and a Fellow of The American Academy of Jewish Research; James N. Rosenberg, lawyer, vice-chairman of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee since 1925 and president of the American Society for Jewish Farm Settlements in Russia; and William Rosenwald, philanthropist, civic leader and son of the late Julius Rosenwald, Chicago merchant and philanthropist.

The occasion marked the spring convocation of Hebrew Union College as well as the founder's day celebration, marking the 125th birthday of the late Rabbi Isaac Mayer Wise, who founded Hebrew Union College and was the father of Dr. Jonah B. Wise, rabbi of Central Synagogue.

Taking part in the procession were rabbis of thirty-two Reform Congregations in Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Westchester and Long Island. Metropolitan alumni of the College, which is in Cincinnati, were present to honor eleven of their colleagues serving with the armed forces.

The honorary degrees were presented by Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of the college. He said there would be no graduation exercises in Cincinnati this year as two classes were graduated last year.

Dr. Morgenstern [illegible]

The theme of the [illegible] the exercises, attended by 1,200 persons, was the elder Rabbi Wise's labors to achieve integration of Judaism through the Reform movement, with the American way of life.

"It was his conviction," Dr. Morgenstern said of Rabbi Wise, "that American Judaism could survive only if it were led by Rabbis who could weld Judaism and Americanism into a creative, living force."

Rabbi Isaac Landman said the chief contribution of Isaac Mayer Wise to Jewish life in America was his constant emphasis that within the American democracy "the Jew must evolve out of the medieval and post-European state of mind and habit, and segregation, and culture and integrate himself in the American scene; to achieve this integration Rabbi Wise labored ceaselessly to interpret America to the Jews and the Jews and Judaism to America."

Only 75 Jews are left in Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia, now occupied by the Red Army. There were 11,000 Jews in Kishinev in 1941, about 80,000 before the war.

25 Roumanian Jews were arrested in Bucharest charged with "establishing contact with Jewish [illegible] and cooperating with [illegible] agents."

fore apartments were made of them. It was bought by Mr. Eckstein soon after the World War and he lived in it intermittently until 1938.

"Then, Mr. Eckstein told me, Nazi officials came to him and demanded that he lease them the place—or else. He did lease it, in order to avoid confiscation. He said it was turned into Berlin headquarters of the Nazi party," Mr. Gotshall said.

Mr. Eckstein went to Vienna and then to Paris. He was there when the Germans occupied the city, but made his way to Marseilles. He came to New York in 1940 and at once executed the first of two wills in which he left the property to the United States.

"He had his heart set on his home becoming the American embassy and, during the years when the State Department owned none, he believed that his hope would be realized," Mr. Gotshall said. "The government's purchase of an embassy just before the war dashed those hopes, but Mr. Eckstein said, 'Well, maybe the place will be something like our embassy'."

It was described by business associates of Mr. Eckstein as an imposing structure with ample gardens. It was valued at "more than $50,000." The contents were not known, but executors were instructed to permit the Metropolitan Museum of Art to select any objects it might desire. Friends believe valuable art is included because music and art were Mr. Eckstein's chief pursuits besides his business. He was well known to Metropolitan Opera stars of former days, having been a friend of Enrico Caruso.

On his return to New York, Mr. Eckstein lived at 90 Riverside Drive. Enjoying vigorous health, he worked daily in the Thirty-seventh Street millinery establishment until he suffered a heart attack. He died six hours later.

The business was one of the oldest and largest of its kind in New York. It was built from an enterprise occupying desk room in Houston Street, which Mr. Eckstein started in 1897. He had come to America from Germany four years earlier, and had done a little jobbing business in metals. The firm moved up to 21 East Twenty-eighth Street after the World War, and to its present location in 1927. For many years Mr. Eckstein had done the buying for it in Europe, passing most of his time there. His wife died in the Berlin house in 1936 and was buried in Vienna.

Appeals For Paper Salvage

Shortage of waste paper may jeopardize Canada's whole war effort, Major General L. R. LaFleche, Minister of National War Services, declared in announcing a nation-wide paper salvage drive.

He appealed to smaller municipalities to organize their collections of vital materials such as paperboard and pointed out that in many areas trucking concerns had agreed to arrange the picking-up of the material.

"The situation is serious," declared the Minister emphatically. "Our mills are operating from hand to mouth. They require 20,000 tons of waste paper—not just for one month, but for every month. The time was, and not so very long ago, when a paper box was merely a container designed to convey its contents to their destination without scuff or breakage.

"Today, paper containers have gone to war. In addition to their hundreds of other uses for military and civilian purposes, they have been designed for the following uses: To be thrown overboard for landing operations, floating to shore or sinking to the bottom to be recovered at low tide; to provide protection for medical kits, blood plasma, emergency rations, gas masks and for hundreds of other uses."

He pointed out paper parachutes strong enough to convey food and supplies for isolated men and units are now in use; treated paper electrical conduits are replacing steel and wood; shells, grenades, fuses, etc., are carried in paper containers. They are also used for dehydrated foods, saving cargo space; for canisters used in transporting powder, shells, airplane propellers, bombs. One of the chief difficulties, he declared, was caused by the fact millions of paper containers sent overseas cannot be returned to Canada for re-use.

NEW LIQUOR PERMITS NOW EFFECTIVE

[illegible]

New permits for the purchase of alcohol and spirits are now in effect

WHERE TO GET YOUR PERMIT

Permits are available to all persons 20 years of age or over, at all Quebec Liquor Commission stores and at 905 Delorimier Street, Montreal, or at the main office for the Quebec district, in Quebec City, corner Dalhousie and St. André Streets.

METHOD

The national registration card of the applicant must be shown at the time of application.

On the issuance of the permit, the national registration card will be marked with a small lozenge-shaped stamp to show that a permit has been granted the individual.

The two sheets, each containing an age declaration of the applicant and the authorization of the Quebec Liquor Commission must be filled out and signed by the party applying for the permit. One of these sheets remains in the issued permit book, the duplicate remaining on file with the Quebec Liquor Commission in order to keep necessary records of ration books and to maintain control of the rationing system.

There is no charge made for permits issued to residents of the Province of Quebec or members of Canada's armed forces, no matter from what part of the country they come.

Permits will allow the purchase of the same quantity of alcohol and spirits as authorized by the previous permit books, namely 40 ounces every two weeks.

A permit will be authorized only for the applying party and is not transferable. In other words, a man cannot apply for a permit for his wife. She must apply in person.

A permit obtained under false pretences, or presented for liquor purchases by anyone other than the person to whom it was originally issued, will be confiscated.

NON-RESIDENT TEMPORARY PERMITS

For civilians not residing in the Province of Quebec, and for members of the armed forces other than those of Canada, a special temporary permit will be issued, subject to the following conditions.

1 — Suitable identification papers must be presented.

2 — The temporary permit will be good for a period of two months and will be issued at a cost of $1.00.

3 — At the expiration of two months the issued temporary permit will be invalid but may be extended for a like period on the payment of $1.00. A renewal application must be filled out for this extension.

All other conditions of the regular resident permit apply in the use of the temporary non-resident permit.

The amount of alcohol and spirits allowed on the temporary permit will be 26 ounces per month.

MAIL ORDER PURCHASES

Permits for ordering by mail in districts not served by the Quebec Liquor Commission stores, can be secured from the mail order store where you usually make your purchases. When ordering by mail, enclose your permit which will be returned with your purchase.

The Quebec Liquor Commission earnestly requests all citizens to use their permits fairly and only for their personal purchases. Co-operation would also be appreciated in reducing purchases to a minimum.

Musical Event Of Special Significance

This Friday eve, May 19, at Temple Emanu-El, Montreal, there will be sung Ernest Bloch's "Avodath Hakodesh" (Sacred Service) by an augmented Temple Choir under the direction of Lazar Weiner, composer and choir director, of New York City. An added feature will be the rendition of selections from Joseph Achron's "Sabbath Eve Service." We believe this is the first time that the liturgical Sabbath Servies of these two foremost of modern Jewish composers is being presented in Canada.

Ernest Bloch now lives in America. While still a child in Switzerland, he vowed that some day he would be a composer, and at sixteen years of age he produced his Oriental Symphony. In Brussels he studied violin under Eugene Ysaye, and composition under F. Rasse. The mature composer is evidenced in his Hebraic period. Bloch early proclaimed himself to be a Jewish composer. He proclaimed his creed as follows:

"Racial consciousness is absolutely necessary to music even though nationalism is not. I am a Jew. I aspire to write Jewish music not for the sake of self-advertisement, but because it is the only way in which I can produce music of vitality, if I can do such a thing at all." Bloch is known for his Schelomo, The Israel Symphony, for Psalm 22. Of his Hebraic work, the most ambitious is the Sacred Service. It is divided into two parts and is built on a Hebrew text drawn exclusively from the Sabbath Services.

At the age of 57, a year ago, Joseph Achron died, and Israel suffered a severe loss in his departure. Achron was born in Lodz, Russia, and at an early age became famous as a child prodigy. Under Auer in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, he studied composition. Achron travelled extensively on concert tours and finally settled in the United States in 1925. His works include many original compositions. He wrote incidental music to the theatrical productions [illegible] musician in his [illegible]. He follows simultaneously two paths. He works on Jewish folklore enriching the Jewish repertoire with brilliant and individualistic compositions and he writes significant music that has nothing of the Jewish tonality. In his later period the two paths meet."

Now, when so many forces tear humanity apart, the need for the healing forces are, indeed, great. Music is certainly one of those influences which unite the world. It is a dominant factor in the promotion of good will.

Non-Jews, prominent in music circles of Montreal, have been invited this Friday Eve to Temple Emanu-El to listen to the works of Bloch and Achron. The works of great Jewish composers can be a great force in breaking down prejudice and old racial antagonisms. Music helped to foster better understanding between peoples. It is one of the arts that is effectively universal. In days to come when the hatred and violence which now stalk our world have passed, we shall find music still one of the most inspiring of forces in cementing brotherhood.

Israel has a rich heritage of song. Let the modern Jew, through this heritage, enrich his own life and help lift to nobler heights the life of mankind.

Vladimir Grossman—Twice Thirty

On May 28, Mr. Vladimir Grossman, veteran journalist and author, reaches his sixtieth birthday and we are delighted to extend to him warmest greetings on this — his milestone anniversary. Grossman is a European in the finest sense, a bearer of European culture in its highest sense and a personality of light and leading.

His is a rich Jewish background. He is a scion of a prominent rabbinic family, a family which boasts of outstanding Talmudists and scholars. From early Hebrew studies Grossman turned to worldly study. After completing the gymnasium at Kertz he studied agriculture in Berlin; later the study of law became his great interest and thus he was enrolled as a student in the University of St. Petersburg. As a mere young man he came under the influence of that distinguished Russian Jewish leader Baron Ginsburg in the work of the Jewish Colonization Association.

Grossman became first known through his editorship of "The Jewish Emigrant." In 1906 he evidenced journalistic talents in his writings in "The Freindt", of St. Petersburg. Then, as parliamentary correspondent in St. Petersburg for "The Utro Rossii", of Moscow, he gained name and fame.

Soon Grossman turned to the Scandinavian lands and there found enrichment of soul, coming in Copenhagen under the influence of that great Jewish-Danish literary master, Georg Brandes. Writing in Yiddish and Russian, Grossman in turn began to produce works in Danish. One of his volumes on "The Old And The New Russia" placed him among the prominent writers in Denmark. The French Government recognized him with an award for his splendid book in Danish on Paris. And still another book in Danish on Jewish life in Russia bearing the title of "Kosak Land" deserves here recognition and mention.

Not many are aware that Grossman during World War No. I served on an important mission bringing documents of state importance out of Russia, and also that, with the rise of Hitlerism, spent weeks in Germany incognito. His observations of The Third Reich were then revealed under a pseudonym in a series of articles in the Swedish press.

For the past ten years Vladimir Grossman has lived and labored among us here in Canada. On an earlier visit in 1919, he learned to admire the Dominion and thus a decade ago he chose Canada as his home, and truly it can be said that Grossman's presence has helped to enrich the cultural life of Montreal.

What a symbol of boundless energy and indomitable enthusiasm is the man Grossman! What a versatile personality! Wielding a mighty pen and full of ideas, he dares propagate new ventures in Jewish communal endeavour which often gain for him opponents.

At home in art, literature, agriculture, and economics, Vladimir Grossman has made contact with Canadian leaders in these fields resulting in a work of "public relations" that is unique and most beneficial to the Jewish community at large. I often wonder why our men of talent are not given the recognition due them? Is it that our world is only cash-minded and not spiritual-minded? Perhaps this terrible war will sober us and awaken us to the consciousness of honoring creative spirit and encourage them to still greater creativeness rather than to shove them aside, as is often the tendency.

For Vladimir Grossman we pray, in the words of the ancient sage, "Ad Meoh Shono", may he thus continue to serve his fellowmen even unto his hundredth year.

WAS GREAT PUBLIC BENEFACTOR

Gladys Guggenheim Straus, wife of Roger W. Straus, of New York, were at her side. The third, Harry F. Guggenheim, former Ambassador to Cuba, had returned to duty as a commander in the United States Naval Reserve at Mercer Field, Trenton, N. J., the night before, expecting his mother to recover.

Funeral services were held at Temple Emanu-el, 1 East Sixty-fifth Street. Mrs. Guggenheim had been a member of the congregation and had been treasurer and trustee of its Sisterhood of Personal Service for thirty years.

That part of Mrs. Guggenheim's life which most touched her fellow New Yorkers came in her sponsorship of the free concerts by the band of Dr. Edwin Franko Goldman, at Central Park and Prospect Park.

When Daniel Guggenheim died on Sept. 28, 1930, Mrs. Guggenheim, through the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Foundation, continued the concerts as a memorial to him. At the end of the twenty-sixth season last summer, Dr. Goldman estimated 25,000,000 persons had attended over the years, and said the Guggenheim family had contributed $2,000,000, probably the greatest gift ever made in the cause of free music."

Mrs. Guggenheim left her credo in deeds, rather than words. She made few public statements, even in the face of tributes. It is necessary to go back twenty-three years to find an expression of her thought—stated for the New York section of the Council of Jewish Women. At that time she said she wanted to help the young, assist the friendless and help those of foreign birth to find the opportunity of America.

"We want to make the American woman the finest product of the fusion of races," she said. "Therefore we are helping her to make as her offering to America the spiritual and racial heritage of her European ancestry and giving her in return guidance and help."

Mrs. Guggenheim was born in Philadelphia on Sept. 2, 1863, daughter of Lazarus Schloss and Barbara Kahnweiler Schloss. She was not yet twenty-one when she married Mr. Guggenheim second son of the Jewish immigrant, Meyer Guggenheim, who begin the family copper-mining saga. Daniel Guggenheim then twenty-eight, had just returned from eleven years of study in Switzerland. He went on to succeed his father as head of the family interests, and at his death, despite numerous philanthropies, his estate amounted to a net of $13,677,125.72.

It was in the last war that Mrs. Guggenheim, with both her sons and her son-in-law in the armed forces, emerged to public notice. She was a director of the National League for Woman's Service in 1917 and 1918, which set up the Soldiers', Sailors' and Mariners' Club in a four-storey house at 251 Lexington Avenue, the city's pioneer organization to offer dances, games and dormitories to service men. She made record sales of $4,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

With her husband and children Mrs. Guggenheim on Jan. 24, 1924, formed a membership corporation, the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Foundation. Its purpose was "the promotion, through charitable and benevolent activities, of the well-being of mankind throughout the world." She served as president and director.

Among her major gifts was the 162-acre Guggenheim estate with its forty-room house at Sands Point, L.I., to the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences in June, 1942, for research and study, a gift hailed by the institute as a direct contribution to experiments on behalf of the war effort.

She was a member of the music advisory committee of the New York World's Fair in 1939. In 1931 she received the insignia of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor at the Aero Club in Paris for her aid in advancement of aviation. She received the Certificate of Honor for Distinguished Service to the City of New York in 1935 and was elected honorary life associate member of the American Bandmasters' Association in 1937.

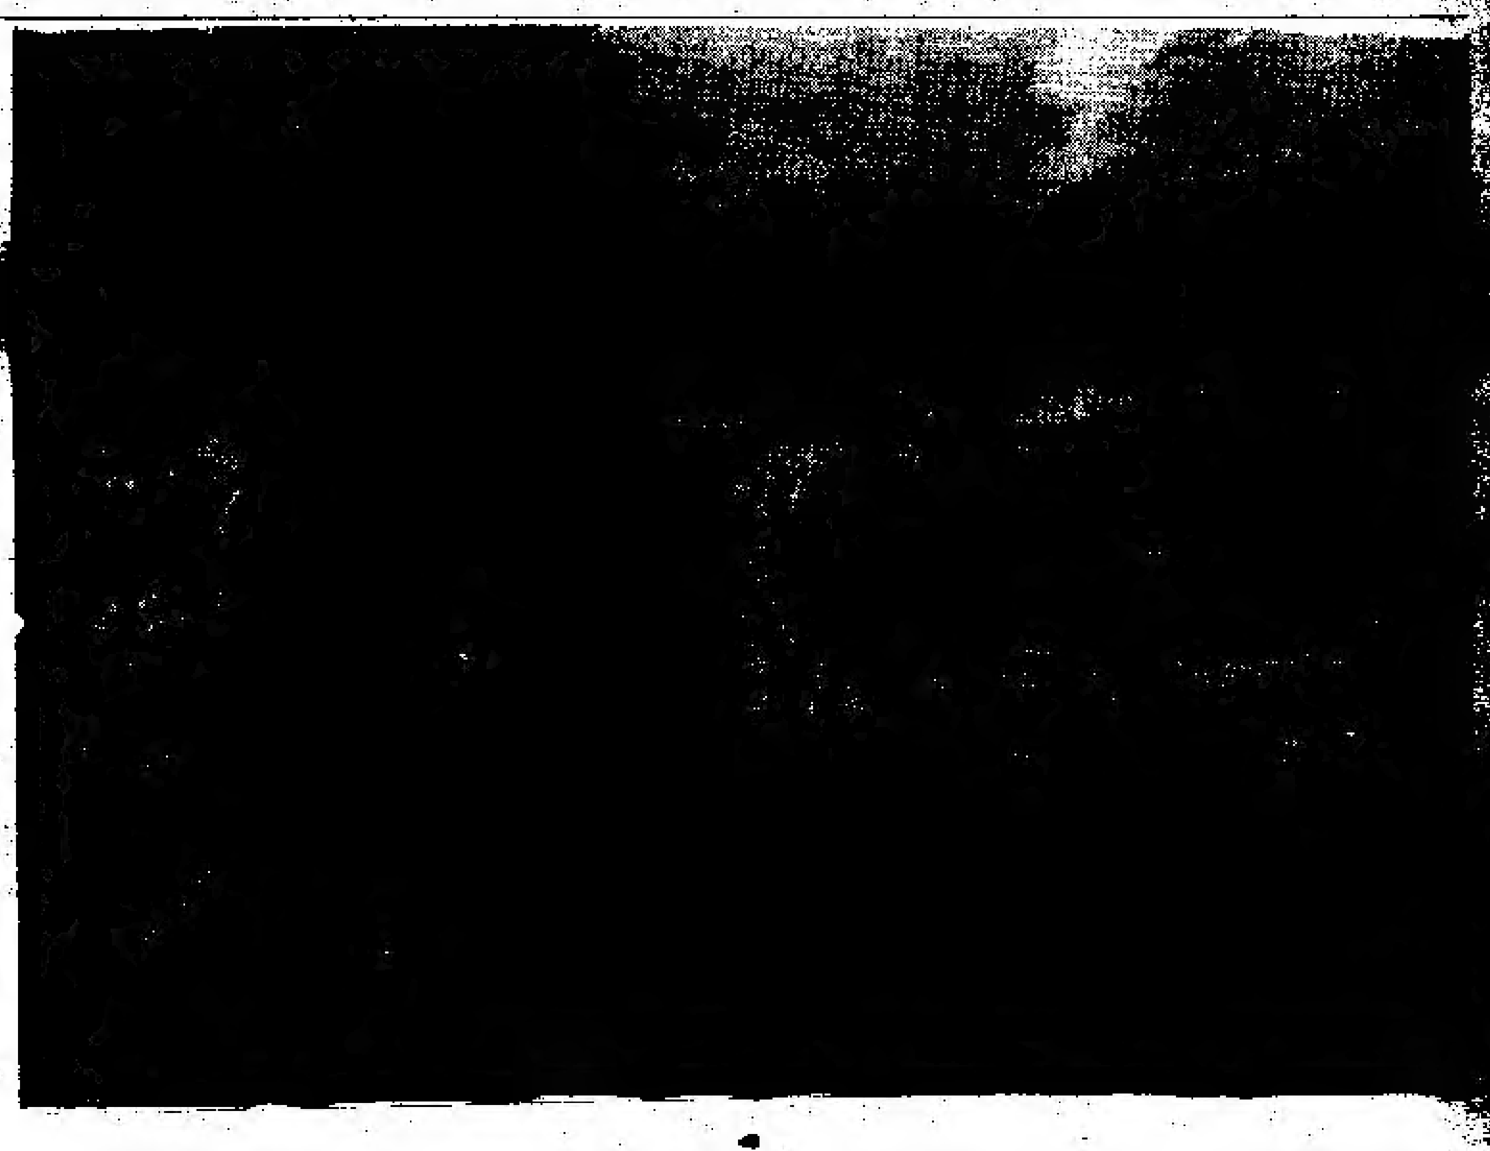
Dies Leaves With Sneer At Immigration

Representative Martin Dies, Democrat, of Texas, after his announcement of withdrawal from the Congressional race said "from the beginning of my service in Congress my opposition to immigration has made me a number of powerful enemies."

In a telephone interview, Mr. Dies said "they were people who wanted to open the gates to relatives, friends and their own nationals. My opposition to such bills prompted the organized blocs in eastern cities, in New York, Chicago and other places, who were determined to bring in their relatives, friends and nationals, to oppose me.

"Some of those opponents not only could not speak English — they couldn't laugh in English."

Representative Dies added: "The American Federation of Labor indorsed me every two years. The Committee for Industrial Organizations indorsed me until the House Committee on Un-American Activities began an investigation of the C.I.O. The A.F. of L. still supports me."



THERE IS A HUNGER FOR THE EARTH

● In the hearts of tens of thousands of Canadians now serving overseas, there is a hunger for the land, for the feel of the plow and the rich smell of good, turned earth. A starvation for the sight of growing things, instead of things destroyed. A gnawing at the vitals for the lights in the window, and cattle in the barn, and hay in the mow.

But that hunger cannot be satisfied, until they have travelled far in strange lands in search of the Beast that would destroy Freedom. When the Beast is slain, then the hunger will be so deep as to reach right into the soul of each Canadian who loves the land, a hunger that will be stilled when he stands again waist-deep in the waving grain, and gathers to himself the strength and the goodness and the plenty of the land.

To those of our finest citizens who want to return to the land after Victory, Canada Unlimited can offer what they have paid for so dearly . . . the broad fields of West and North and East and South, the untouched valleys, begging for the hands that can love, nurture and develop them, the limitless plains beckoning on and ever on.

Then will their hunger be satisfied.

It is ours to see that the land is theirs by our continued buying and holding of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, which are, in reality, shares in the vast natural resources of "Canada Unlimited".
